

A la carte channels is an excellent idea. Why pay for programming that I do not want. However, I foresee prices going up for this particular service. Which is a shame considering that the cost of this service is already too expensive and faulted while the cost of over the air broadcasting is still free.